Stock Market Rallies, Gets Needed Rest

BY JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a much-needed rest day after a dizzy whirl in which it rallied from its steepest dive since 1929.

Stock exchanges are closed for the Memorial Day holiday. The swirling rally Tuesday afternoon recovered almost all of the ground lost Monday in the worst market collapse in 33 years. But investors and brokers had this question to ponder: Will the rally carry through Thursday?

There was no way of telling whether the momentum generated will be sufficient to hurdle the holiday breather.

Some brokers were optimistic and conceded it would be an uphill struggle to sustain an advance in a market that has been declining since mid-March.

A sudden surge of buying by mutual funds and other institutions sparked the rally.

The advance, with blue-chip stocks in the vanguard, jerked Wall Street from a shroud of gloom. Brokers on the floor and speculators in the gallery at New York Stock Exchange cheered as the closing bell rang at 3:30 p. m.

But it wasn't until 8:14 p. m. that the exchange's swamped high speed ticker tape spun out the report on the final transaction.

In the remarkable recovery, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial issues spurted 27.03 to 603.96, coming close to wiping out Monday's loss of 34.95.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks jumped 8.90 to 220.10 after having dropped 13.40 the day before. It was the biggest gain since Nov. 14, 1929.

Based on the AP average's gain an estimated total of $12.9 billion dollars was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange. This erased the bulk of Monday's loss of $19.5 billion.

Trading volume skyrocketed to 14.75 million shares, second only to the 16,410,030 on Black Tuesday, the Oct. 29, 1929, crash. Monday's total was 9.35 million.

The trading covered 1,399 issues a record exceeding the mark of 1,375 established Monday. Declines outnumbered advances 637 to 630.

Big gains were posted on the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange in San Francisco in one of the biggest trading days in its history. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, after a speech, said the rally may be a good sign but declined to venture an opinion on that the market might do next.

No government action was taken to stem the decline when it was in progress. President Kennedy expressed concern but said he felt the economy was sound. He had said earlier he felt the market would move along with the economy.

The stock market's decline has been blamed on many things—suspicion that business will fall in recession in 1963, the Kennedy administration's attitude toward business, the opinion that stock prices were too high in relation to earnings, the feeling that competition from the European Common Market will tighten the profit squeeze on American industry.

Miller Appeals 6 Year Sentence

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—John H. Miller appealed to the Arkansas Supreme Court today from a 6 year prison sentence for grand larceny given him in Hempstead Circuit Court.

Coffelt Not to Bring Up Race Issue

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Kenneth Coffelt asked Negro ministers to help him get the Negro vote in his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

In an arm-waving speech before the AME Church ministers' conference in North Little Rock Tuesday, Coffelt said he was bypassing segregation as an issue, but indicated that he was aligned with Gov. Orval E. Faubus on that subject.

He said no good could come from further discussion of the subject, however, and several of the ministers answered "amen."

Gov. Orval Faubus, who appeared at a convention in Hot Springs Tuesday, makes a Memorial Day address at the National Cemetery in Fort Smith today, then he will return to Little Rock.

Faubus outlined Arkansas' progress under his administration for 300 out-of-state visitors at a luncheon products distributors convention.

Dale Alford promised Tuesday to provide tax relief by presenting a bill to the legislature to allow federal tax paid to be deducted from state returns. Alford also said he would enlarge the Highway Commission and see that counties and cities get more road aid.

Coffelt reiterated his pledge to ride state government of "the utility, liquor and gambling interests."

He said he believed the Kennedy administration was helping Faubus in his bid for a fifth term and that the two administrations were "trading out."

Sid McMath, another candidate, was to speak to the Negro ministers today.

Coffelt hinted that he was for segregation because he said he and the Negro ministers were opposing Faubus for different reasons. On integration, he said: "When I am governor, I'm going to do what's right." He said they might wonder about what he thought was right. "I'll say to you, I'm going to cross that bridge when I get to it."

The new mill will cost about $250,000, will be big and modern and about as fire proof as a sawmill can be made. The building itself will be of concrete and steel and will be 13 feet off the ground, Mr. Stacks said.

"We searched several states before deciding on the type of sawmill to build. Now we are working out finances and if everything goes well we should start construction in about three to six weeks. It will take approximately three months to build a mill of this type," Mr. Stacks said.

Mr. Stacks highly praised a local insurance agency for its prompt action when the mill burned. "A claim in excess of $100,000 usually takes months to settle, but this one came through in record time," he declared.

"I also want to say that we plan to use the same crew as we had at the time of the fire, if they are still available," he said. The mill was in operation only two weeks and employed a crew of 67 workers.

The Memphis firm purchased the mill from Graydon Anthony on March 20. The fire destroyed the main sawmill but the dry kiln, planer mill, boiler room and the company office were not damaged.

Man Sought for Killing Five Caught

UNIONVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Gayno Gilbert Smith, 24, methodical slayer of five relatives, was captured today after a farmer tracked him for more than four miles through rugged, hilly country.

Smith had eluded capture since Saturday night when he killed five members of the Andrew McBeth family at their farm near Martinsburg.

Officers found the fugitive hiding in some baled hay on the Pete Nathony farm near the entrance to Lake Wapello State Park about 10 miles east of here.

Smith was not armed but he ignored orders to come out of the barn and had to be dug out and dragged from beneath the baled hay.

Pete Smith, a farmer, began tracking the fugitive about daybreak after noticing a strange, unshaven man walking near his farm.

The trail led through timber and across hilly fields covered with scrub brush.

The fugitive was tracked to the Walter Cantrell farm about three miles from where farmer Smith started out. Then he continued to track Smith another mile and a half to the barn where he sought refuge.

Cantrell called authorities, but said his wife wouldn't let him help track the fugitive. "She was pretty worried," he said.

Smith's capture ended a three-day search for him in this southern Iowa area where he had fled after the Saturday night slayings of the relatives with whom he had lived.

Authorities said he used a combination .410 shotgun and .22 caliber rifle to kill Andrew R. McBeth, 51, an uncle; Dora McBeth, 42, an aunt; twin cousins, Amos and Anna 19; and another cousin Dona Jean Kellogg, 17. The twins and Mrs. Kellogg, a divorcee, were children of Mr. and Mrs. McBeth.

Body of Boy, 12, Found in Mine Shaft

By DAVID A. LEHERR

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (AP)—Rescuers today found the body of a 12-year-old boy, nearly 10 hours after he plunged down a 550-foot mine shaft while chasing a squirrel with a friend Tuesday night.

The body of Kenneth Shickley Jr. was found at 5:24 a. m. by two miners on top of an old mine buggy on an offset of the shaft, an estimated 450 feet down.

He was hoisted to the top of the shaft shortly before 7 a. m. The miners, John Varano and Joseph Garcia, had to crawl 90 feet along the side of the shaft to reach the boy. They had been lowered into the mine at 3:55 a. m., but on the way down they had to shore sides of the mine shafts to brace rotten timbers.

Kenneth's father, who had been at the rescue scene all night, broke into tears and collapsed when he heard that the boy had been found dead.

"My God, My God," he cried. "Oh God, it's awful."

Several of the 100 rescue workers burst into tears when they saw the mangled body of the boy was brought up.

The boy's mother, who had remained at home with five other children in the family, cried: "He's dead, he's down in the hole."

Kenneth fell down the shaft when a step on a ladder broke, authorities said. His friend, Bill Kreiger, also 12, summoned rescuers.

Later Bill told authorities that he and Kenneth had gone to a wooded mountain area not far from their homes to hunt frogs when they noticed a squirrel and chased the animal into the mine shaft. They went in a few feet, Bill related, and started climbing back when a step on the ladder broke. Bill was in front of Kenneth on the ladder and made it to safety.

The 100 rescuers immediately began working under floodlights to penetrate the mine shaft.

Joseph Templin, a volunteer fireman from Shamokin was lowered by rope about 300 feet, then pulled out again. He said the timber sidings of the mine shaft were too rotten to risk going lower. Templin said all he could see below him were broken ladders and water at the bottom. Authorities said there was 90 feet of water at the bottom but Kenneth did not touch the water.

Later the rescue workers needed a cable attached to a gumboot to lower Varano and Garcia. A gumboot is similar to a mine buggy used to pull coal out of a mine. Kenneth's father is an employee of the Reading Transportation Co. in Harrisburg.

Rock Dropping Crow Angers Mothers

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A crowd that drops rocks on youngsters drew the wrath of mothers in a northeastern Portland suburban area Tuesday.

They told sheriff's deputies that Shorty, the crowd, must go. He also pulls hair, dive-bombs children and dogs, greets each dawn and other neighborhood activities with loud caws, and in general makes a pest of himself, the women complained.

Shorty is the pet of the William H. Free family, which has four children. They have had Shorty two years. He sometimes follows them to school. On other occasions he flies escort for the family car.

Free admitted Shorty could be a trial to others.

Got to Live — But This Way?

NORWICH, England (AP)—The Norfolk and Norwich Hospital says nude modeling is not a proper way for its nurses to earn extra wages.

The girl who brought on the stricture was a student nurse, Margery Carleton 26, who took to posing unclad for art students at a night school.

After hospital authorities objected, she quit the hospital.

"Other nurses in Norwich do nude modeling at night to earn a little extra," Margery told newsmen. "We have got to live."

Weather for Memorial Day Fair

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Partly cloudy and mild was the Arkansas forecast for Memorial Day after a line of cooling thunderstorms passed through the state Tuesday.

A violent windstorm in the Leachville - Monette - Lake City area injured at least five persons and left considerable property damage, including damage to several hundred acres of cotton.

There was a possibility of more showers today, but the Weather Bureau said no violent weather was expected.

The three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Gene Lesley of Lake City were injured when their home near Lake City was damaged. The children were treated at a Jonesboro hospital and released.

Bud Schumaker of Leachville was blown against a farm trailer while working in a field and suffered a broken leg. Shelby Ford of near Leachville received a broken leg and face lacerations when a shed blew in on him about a quarter of a mile from where Schumaker worked.

Property damage, beside the shed, included hail damage to about 100 acres of cotton, destruction of a roof at the Lake City elementary school by a toppled chimney and damage to residential roofs. No one was at the Lake Village school when the damage occurred.

The line of thundershowers that moved eastward across the state Tuesday did little to allay a sore need for general rains, however.

Only in scattered areas were the rains heavy enough to have a good effect on crops suffering from one of the driest Mays in years.

Wasn't Actually in the Picture

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. A.B. Jordan and her three children saw a tail moving across the TV screen Tuesday and it wasn't a part of any program.

Gathering her nerve Mrs. Jordan took a stick and jabbed a two foot snake off the picture tube inside the set and beat it to death.

IRS Admits to Some Mistakes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday it made some mistakes, mostly in "customer relations" in its recent survey of compliance of income tax laws in Fordyce.

District Director Fred W. Johnson said the IRS had learned that the 30 agents sent into the area to make the survey were probably not needed and that the service imposed a hardship on hourly wage employees by setting their interviews during the work day.

"We learned the image we held of ourselves by giving a taxpayer assistance is incorrect. By talking with people about their tax problems, we learned the IRS should make some corrections in taxpayer understanding about tax regulations."

A furor of protests rose when the IRS sent the agents into the town for the survey over a month ago. Business lagged and the Chamber of Commerce protested strongly.

Johnson said the survey netted the IRS an additional $50,000.

Memorial Day Is Observed Around Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

These free United States pay tribute today to those who died in her defense. Ceremonies, large and small were scheduled in every hamlet of the land.

There were tributes of silence, too. President Kennedy asked that the hour of 11 a. m. be set aside in each locality as a time for prayer.

"Memorial Day each year provides a fitting occasion upon which Americans may not only pay tribute to our honored dead but also unite in prayer for success in our search for a just and lasting peace," the President said.

Kennedy, who planned to spend the morning with his family at Glen Ora, Va., returns to the White House in the afternoon to give his full attention to the problems incumbent in the search for that lasting peace.

House Speaker John W. McCormack was the President's representative for the traditional laying of the presidential wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns in the Arlington National Cemetery.

One of the largest single ceremonies planned was the dedication of a gleaming white monument astride the sunken battleship USS Arizona in Pearl Harbor. The battleship is a tomb for more than 1,100 sailors and marines who died without a chance to fight.

Rep. Olin E. Teague, D-Tex., chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, said in his prepared dedication address that "the fruit of their sacrifice still grows and blossoms, and multiplies each passing day."

"It is ironic but true," he said, "that in this troubled world of ours good may spring from evil. So these splendid men who live forever ennobled beneath these waters did not die in vain. Even in death they made us all their debtors."

In New York City, Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered flags flown at half mast until noon in "memory of our heroic dead."

On a hill near Rindge, N.H., tributes on behalf of the President and governors of all 50 states were to be laid at an open air altar which has the unique distinction of being recognized by Congress as a memorial to all of America's war dead—men and women, military and civilian—in all wars.

In historic Boston, where the slow memorial drums of the Grand Army of the Republic once led marches, other marchers moved to cemeteries where the boys in blue now lie.

In Denver, the nation's newest hero — astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter—was to be a featured participant in a parade.

Courses in Reading to Be Offered

Registration for the Phonetic Reading Course which will be offered this summer in the Hope Schools will begin today at Paisley School and continue tomorrow between 8 a. m. and 12 noon, L. F. Slatton, Elementary Supervisor, announced today.

Mr. Slatton stated that this course is designed for pupils who want to improve their reading and spelling. Students who are in the second through the sixth will be eligible to enroll in this course.

A skilled teacher in the Phonetic approach to reading will teach this course, and organize students according to grade or achievement levels. The period of instruction will cover a five week period from June 11 through July 13.

"We hope that parents who have children that reading difficulty will take advantage of this opportunity, as I believe that it will be of great benefit," Mr. Slatton said.

Fatalities Run About Two an Hour

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pleasant weather, for the most part, lured millions to the nation's thoroughfares this Memorial Day.

Deaths on the highways as a result of traffic mishaps averaged about two an hour through the halfway point of the holiday periods.

"The National Safety Council estimated that by the end of the 24-hour period at midnight, local time, between 80 and 120 persons will have been killed in traffic accidents. The council said that during the 30 hours, nearly all of the nation's 74 million vehicles will have been in motion.

No deaths were reported in the first five hours of the period that started at 6 p. m. (local time) Tuesday.

At noon, after 18 hours, the traffic deaths totaled 35.

Co-op Plant Finished Little Early

OSARK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas Electric Cooperative Corp. officials said Monday a 57,000-kilowatt steam generating plant near Ozark will be completed ahead of schedule and at $2 million less than planned.

Harry L. Oswald, general manager, told newsmen touring the facility it will cost an estimated $7.5 million rather than $9.5 as previously believed.

And, Oswald said, the production of power should start in March, 1953, rather than in July. Oswald attributed the savings to a favorable market and wise buying.

For instance, a generator and turbine unit expected to cost $2 million was negotiated for $1.45 million, he said. Also, only four showers mainly in the afternoons and evenings. Low tonight 68 to 76. High Tomorrow 86 to 92.

"You're worse than a top sergeant!" he said.

"Top sergeant?" I snapped. "So that's what you're thinking of — the time you're bawled out for being AWOL after the big push. Bet you had another letter from that French girl."

Even though 15 years had passed since World War II ended, I was still jealous of the French girl. Fans Expecting Records to Fall at Speedway

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A quarter-million speed fans came to see records smashed at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today in a tradition going back to cigar-chewing Jules Goux and the immortal Ralph De Palma.

The 4th 500-mile was still "the race" to auto buffs, although longer and faster races are run every year on newer tracks with higher banked turns.

There was tremendous excitement when Parnelli Jones turned the first 150-m.p.h. lap in the 500 qualifications. Even the 500 preliminaries drew crowds estimated at 150,000.

Today's starters included Jim Rathmann, who set the world closed course competitive record of 170.22 m.p.h. at Daytona International Speedway in 1959. He got considerably more publicity (and cash) by winning the 500 the next year at 138.77.

There was a chance that today's Memorial Day classic would be run under 3 1/2 hours for the first time—little more than half what it took Ray Harroun to win the 1911 opener in his Marmon Wasp.

The crowd at the 4th running had every reason to expect a record performance from a field that included the top drivers from the U. S. Auto Club's championship, sprint car and midget circuits. It averaged a record 147.33 m.p.h. in the trials, almost two miles faster than the 1961 record.

Jones, the defending sprint champion, was a popular favorite after cracking the 150 m.p.h. barrier but he faced formidable competition from four former winners—USAC big car champion A. J. Foyt Jr., Troy Ruttman, Rodger Ward—and Jim Rathmann.

The first 3 1/2-hour race would take an average speed of 142.857 m.p.h., against Foyt's record of 139.130 last year in his 8 1/2-second victory over Eddie Sachs.

Harroun needed over 6 hours and 42 minutes to win at 74.59 miles an hour in 1911.

Banks Homers 3 Times, Cubs Are Defeated

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cancel those get-well cards for Ernie Banks, who returned to action only four days after a pitch plunked him in the head, and fired a home run salvo that shot him right up among the leaders in the National League home run derby.

Fortified with aspirin to relieve his aching head, the 31-year-old Chicago Cubs' slugger returned to action Tuesday, doubled in his first appearance, then followed with three consecutive homers in an 11-9 loss to Milwaukee.

Banks drilled a double in his first at-bat since a pitch by Cincinnati's Moe Drabowsky sent him to the hospital last Friday night, hit a two-run homer in the third and wound up his one-man show with bases-empty homers in the fifth and seventh.

The first three-homer performance of the season pulled Banks, No. 1 homer-hitting shortstop in major league history, into a tie for second place in the NL homer race with San Francisco's Orlando Cepeda. Each has 14. Willie Mays of the Giants leads with 1.

Twenty-nine hits, but not a homer, were sprayed to all corners at Pittsburgh in the only other game played, and when it was all over an error had made it possible for the Pirates to take over third place by beating St. Louis 7-6 and dropping the Cardinals to fourth.

In the American League, Kansas City edged the New York Yankees 2-1, Boston defeated Minnesota 8-5, Detroit defeated Baltimore 12-4 and Washington nipped the Los Angeles Angels 7-6 in 10 innings. Cleveland, which took over first place when the Yanks lost, and Chicago were not scheduled.

Locusts Licked

TEHRAN, Iran, (AP)—Official reports say U. S. spray planes have waged a successful campaign against the locust plague in western Iran and the region will have its biggest wheat crop in 10 years.

Tigers Seem to Be on the Range Now

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It took them a while to find the range, but Detroit's surging Tigers have finally zeroed in. The next target in their rapid-fire rise is the big one—the American League lead.

Don Mossi's seven hitting pitching backed by an offensive barrage that included four homers carried the Tigers over Baltimore 12-4 Tuesday and put them a mile closer to the top.

The Tigers, stiffest opposition for the New York Yankees last year and expected to make another challenge this season, have steadied themselves after an erratic start. They were ninth early this month after a string of five losses and 13 days ago were seventh, 5 1/2 games off the pace.

Since then they've won 9 of 11 in a climb that has taken them to fourth place, two games behind first-place Cleveland.

In other AL games, Kansas City

shaded New York 2-1, dropping the Yankees out of a tie for the lead as John Wyatt and Bill Fischer combined for a seven-hitter; Boston beat third-place Minnesota 8-5; and Washington edged Los Angeles 7-6 on Jim Piersall's home run in the 10th inning. Cleveland and Chicago had the day off.

In the only two National League games, Pittsburgh inched ahead of St. Louis into third place with a 7-6 decision over the Cardinals, and Milwaukee outscored Chicago 11-9 despite six Cub home runs, including three by Ernie Banks.

Wyatt and Fischer frustrated the Yankees at virtually every turn as the defending league champions again showed a lack of punch for the big inning. They loaded the bases with one out the first, got their first two men on in the fifth, and had another chance in the eighth with two on. But they failed to score each time and stranded 10 runners.

Founder Dies

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP)—Assar Gabrielsson, 70 founder of the Volvo Motor Company, died here Monday.

Invited to L. A. Track Meet

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A track star from North Little Rock's Scipio Jones High School, Raymond Rothwell, plans to compete in the invitational high school track meet at Los Angeles, Calif., Coliseum June 1.

Bothwell has run the 440-yard dash in 47.2 seconds. The national record is 4.1 seconds.

Wreck a Bit Premature

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A car that was on its way to have an accident Tuesday had it too soon. The intent was to hoist the auto into the air by helicopter, then drop it 240 feet onto the rock ledge of a quarry.

The wreckage, supposed to be what a car would look like after a head-on collision at 60 miles an hour, was designed as a demonstration to frighten Memorial Day motorists.

As the copter was carrying the 1952 model car, a chain broke and the car plunged into a swamp about half a mile away.
